

Intimate Partner Violence

We offer hope to families dealing with domestic violence because everyone deserves to feel safe at home.

Domestic abuse is a cruel cycle that hurts families over and over—but there is hope. CHR's Integrated Family Violence Services program provides intensive clinical and case management services for families of domestic violence. These primarily in-home services take into account all family members, including child and adult survivors as well as the batterer. Our program focuses on increasing safety, reducing trauma, improving the parent-child relationship, and helping non-offending adults and children stabilize their lives after abuse. By educating families about the impact of domestic violence, we can help break the cycle.

HOW WE CAN HELP

Once immediate safety concerns have been addressed, we work with families to develop a care plan. Our core services include:

- Safety assessment
- Safety planning for the survivor and the child
- Trauma-focused work with children
- Intervention to improve parent-child relationships
- Batterer assessment and referral
- Case management

COORDINATING CARE

A key element of our Integrated Family Violence Services program is that we help coordinate and share information between agencies including child welfare; adult, family and civil courts; batterer intervention services; and victim advocate services. With key agencies sharing a common understanding, we can work together to ensure that an appropriate and coordinated response is available when needed.

WORKING TOGETHER FOR POSITIVE CHANGE

This program receives referrals directly from the local DCF office. Our experienced and compassionate staff are ready to help. We invite you to speak with CHR's Integrated Family Violence Services Program Manager at 1.860.646.3888 ext. 422 for more information.
